School Profile Lady's Island Elementary

Lady's Island Elementary is a rural school located on a small sea island near the city of Beaufort, South Carolina. The school has become a popular school-of-choice that provides an arts-infused curriculum, attracting a diverse population of students. In addition to teaching standards through the arts in the classrooms, we offer extra programs including violin, cello, and guitar classes, dance, drama, show choir, and visual arts. Peer through the windows of our classrooms and you will see children happily engaged in artistic activities in which learning academic standards is an effortless pleasure. There are always special events and performances happening, which creates a constant buzz of excitement in the air.
