Hilton Head Island Early Childhood Center

We believe in the “whole child” and in providing opportunities for children to express themselves through symbolic languages, music, movement, art knowledge, and dance.

Arts are integrated throughout the curriculum. Each team of two kindergarten classrooms has an art studio. Students engage in all mediums of visual arts, music, media and physical education. Specialists in these areas meet with the students once or twice a week. We also provide opportunities for our students to participate in artist in residency programs.

We believe in the power of parents as partners.

We support parent involvement in a variety of ways. Through participation in TPAC (Teacher Parent Advisory Council), Family Math Night, volunteer opportunities, as well as through community events, our parents are encouraged to “BE THERE” for our students.

We value self-sufficiency as expressed by students developing competent decision-making skills.

In our school we promote positive behavior by practicing our “BEST”:

BE KIND
SELF-CONTROL
TEAMWORK

All students may participate in classroom and individual guidance sessions throughout the school year.

We see children as powerful, competent and strong.

We provide a challenging academic program to develop life-long readers, writers, and critical thinkers. Students participate in a comprehensive assessment program to document their growth and achievement in reading, math and social emotional skills.

We value the inquiries of children as much as we value the answers.

Our program is strongly influenced by the Reggio Emilia philosophy which promotes individual and group guided inquiry. Our students become involved in project work and research as they explore the world around them.

Our building opened its doors in January 2006. In keeping with our philosophy, we believe services for children should be brought to the child. Hence, our facility is designed in four pod areas which house classrooms, support services and dining areas. This unique and award-winning design enhances the instructional program for Pre-Kindergarten and Kindergarten students.
