SCHOOL REPORT CARD NARRATIVE

D. W. Daniel High School opened in 1955 when three community high schools were consolidated into a centrally located facility. Though much has changed in our community since 1955, the desire of our parents remains the same: to make sure their children receive the best education possible in a society much different from the one they entered after high school. Daniel High School reflects the community's desire in its mission to "prepare students to become well-rounded, responsible citizens by providing a broad range of educational and cultural opportunities in a safe, caring, community-supported environment."

Daniel High School is one of four high schools in a rural county-wide school district. Our student population of approximately 1000 is enrolled in grades 9-12. DHS has established a tradition of excellence that is not only evident throughout all areas of our school but is also recognized as a school that provides top-notch education for our students. We offer 16 AP courses and a combined 381 AP tests were taken in 2011; with a 79% passage rate – well above district and state averages. Our students routinely score above state and national averages on standardized tests, and our SAT and ACT scores place us among the top South Carolina high schools each year. Last year our school was recognized by US News and World Report and Newsweek as one of the top high schools in the nation. Additionally, Daniel High's excellence has been rewarded with the Palmetto Gold Award each year from 2001-2002 through 2007-2008 and again in 2011-2012.

Daniel's successes are not limited to academic performance. Our students excel in extracurricular activities as well. Students participate on the math team, academic teams, and the mock trial team. They compete on the Biology Merit Exam and in foreign language declamation contests. Leadership is cultivated through AFJROTC, Youth in Government, and student council. Many of our 26 athletic teams regularly compete for regional and state championships. Students in our fine arts program participate competitively in regional and state competitions and share the skills that they have honed in class with different community outlets. Oratorical contests, writing competitions, and the school's award-winning literary magazine and yearbook afford our students other venues to demonstrate excellence. Our students' commitment to service learning is a commendable component of Daniel's tradition of excellence. Our students tutor younger children in our community and provide support for the Special Olympics. Furthermore, they offer their time to the elderly at area retirement centers. Our students recognize that it is important to share their time and talents.

A key factor in Daniel High's success is our 61-member faculty. Our professional staff, 90 percent of whom hold advanced degrees, boasts 19 National Board Certified teachers. Through continued professional development our teachers model lifelong learning as an encouragement and example to our students.

While these accolades and accomplishments reflect the diligence and achievements of Daniel High School, the real focus of this institution is serving the needs of the young people from our three communities. For over fifty years Daniel High School has provided experiences that enabled our graduates to face future challenges with confidence and enthusiasm.
